SKIT NIGHT PROGRAM OFFERS ENTERTAINMENT.

The appearance of the Skit Night Artists from the University of Florida in the college auditorium tomorrow night will be one of the most entertaining programs presented this year. Each year Professor Delaney and his group of students present a series of skits in the program presented at the University during the year and bring them to Tallahassee for the amusement of the students.

This year Fred Hamilton's jazz orchestra will appear as a feature of the entertainment. This is a newly organized orchestra that has been under the direction of the late Professor Hamilton. It has been customary for members of the senior class to bring their sophomore sisters to the Skit Night program.

WHAT THEY KNOW

An editorial entitled "Preparations" which appeared in the Wheaton News, weekly publication of Wheaton College, Norton, Mass. contains a question regarding the education of women. The editorial is quoted below:

"A recent criticism in a New York paper deplores the fact that modern college teachers are not the best everything but wives. This is rather a sweeping statement, and in the article itself the writer admits that the chief reason suggested is the institution of a domestic science course, and evidently it has had some effect for the following year appeared a few weeks later, 'The young ladies of an exclusive Massachusetts college have petitioned the president of the school for a course in domestic science. They are gratified that the girls have taken this step, and hope that at last they appreciate the needs and rights of their fellow women.'

And there is food for thought; perhaps our education is being neglected along certain lines. Greed or higher aims may be all right in their place, but a different estimate of the worth of the young ladies will hardly satisfy a hungry husband. After all they cannot brookant on a domestic science course, and the picture of the young husband desperately hankering on the girl always causes a flood of sympathy. And yet I should wonder how many girls are prepared for that sort of thing when they are married.

It is not that the girls are not intelligent, but that they are not intelligent enough to realize that a woman's college ought to provide, or if it after all, the general acquaintance with the world, and the picture of the young husband desperately hankering on the girl always causes a flood of sympathy. And yet I should wonder how many girls are prepared for that sort of thing when they are married.

Perhaps it will be alarming to discover how many college girls cannot talk water without turning it on the under side of their noses. The young ladies will hardly satisfy a hungry husband. After all they cannot brookant on a domestic science course, and the picture of the young husband desperately hankering on the girl always causes a flood of sympathy. And yet I should wonder how many girls are prepared for that sort of thing when they are married.

Our idea of penmanship personified in the girl who makes the most perfect of spring birds is only a pun.

COLLEGE ATTENDANCE REACHES PEAK IN 1931.

A recent article in the New York Times states that the attendance at American colleges and universities is at its highest level in its history despite the economic depression which characterized the year 1931. The report points out that the present enrollment is only slightly higher than that of the "prosperous period five years ago."

The reporting colleges and universities have an attendance of 992,514 students abroad, representing an increase of 3,721 students over the figures in 1930. The report also states that there was a decrease of 2,044 from that of last year in the number of women attending college. The figures show that the present enrollment is only slightly higher than that of the "prosperous period five years ago."

The Florida State College for Women, one of the largest institutions of higher learning in the nation, showed practically no decrease in enrollment on the first of December when figures were compared with the figures for the same date last year.

Meanwhile the college world was assured of at least one representative on the American peace delegation when President Hoover appointed as one of its members Miss Mary Emma Woolley.

Miss Woolley, popularly considered a conservative pacifist, is the first woman ever to be appointed to such a commission from this nation. Being the "first woman" is nothing new to her, however. She graduated from Brown University in 1904, the first woman ever to receive a degree from that institution.

A few years ago she was placed on the "black list" of several branches of the Daughters of the American Revolution, because of her activities in behalf of the cause of peace. Although she is normally a Republican, she is independent in her voting, having voted for Cox in 1920 because he favored entry into the League of Nations.

Dr. Hermann Kurz, professor of botany and an authority on West Florida wild plant life, has been appointed by President Conrad to further plans for the project.

Dr. Kurz said that the arboretum would be enclosed and kept in its natural state as nearly as conditions permit. The entire area will be fenced off and inside the enclosure winding paths will be made in keeping with the general idea of retaining natural conditions. Within the next few weeks H. D. Mendenhall, college engineer, will lay off the land for the arboretum and the preliminary work on the project will begin.

Finally, thickets together with the Quercus forest are now being perfected by Dr.

least 65 different species of trees and shrubs. The forest has been added since the land was al-are: live oak, live oak, live oak, others.

Rare trees common to this locality alone, which have been added to the forest are: live oak, live wood tree (torreya taxifolia) and the Florida yew. The live oak, which grows naturally along the coast, is a very common tree. The native haunts a beautiful asymmet-

"On Second Thought" is a one act play which was written by a student of Oklahoma City University and was presented there in 1922. It deals with a young girl who has always wanted riches and luxury and who, when given the chance of marrying a rich man, will, disown his wife and Billie, the girl, with understanding, combining in her touch a certain bit of bravado with pathos. Her portrayal of Babe, Billie's outspoken friend, was delightful. The character of Mrs. Cleverden was also ably done, showing the audience quite definitely just what sort of a woman Mrs. Cleverden is.

This poet has been called the "Homer of Anthology" because of her great interest in modern poetry and the anthologies of which have been compiled by her. Her life has been dealt with modern poetry, giving perhaps the first appreciative account of their work in her book, which was published over twenty years ago.

From that time on, she has written poetry, and has been elected to the Academy of the Arts of the Poetry Society of America. In 1908, has done a great deal to promote the poetry of the day.

Mrs. Rittenhouse, or Mrs. Clinton Scollard, arrived in Tulsa—here yesterday afternoon, and her husband has taken her winter home.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS

Mother's Day, to be celebrated Sunday, is now filled with tender meaning for all people, but it holds a particular significance for students and faculty members of Florida State College for Women whose interests are devoted to the development of the womanhood of the state.

Students and faculty members will participate Sunday in a public expression of their love for and appreciation of mothers who have cared for them during a life time of service. Those who will wear carnations in memory of their mothers will be able to render some kindness to mothers separated from their children. Girls whose mothers are living will extend greetings to them either personally, or by mail or wire.

Remember that the devotion of a mother leads to express their appreciation for the kindnesses shown them during the school year by social workers and home mothers. These women play a major and almost unique role in the life of our college, because of the tribulations they make toward the happy living of students.

The importance of the mother and the home to the individual life is well known. May 8, 1916 when congress passed a joint resolution authorizing President Wilson to declare the second Sunday in May a day to be known as "Mother's Day" was a day to be remembered for the public expression of love and reverence for the mothers of this country. The earnest beauty of its reverence, purity and endurance was made manifest.

The students of Florida State College for Women send greetings to their own mothers, and to the mothers of their college sisters—the social directors and home mothers.

ACCEPTED AND SHIRRED

A large percentage of the money pledged by students of Florida State College for Women to support the local Young Women's Christian association is as yet unpaid. All pledges were made in the first of April, and failure to meet them financial obligations incident, in most cases, thinking of responsibility.

STUDENT SELF GOVERNMENT

Leadership of the Student Government association of Florida State College for Women was given over this week to the incoming officers elected by the student body. The formal installation of these officers Monday night before the assembly of the students of the college was a most interesting and important occasion.

The student self government is a body which has practical application on this campus, and is a body of government which has given concrete instruction in civics, and preparation for political participation in community and national affairs.

The college government association is to its members an insight into the meaning and need of law, and helps them to formulate and put into action ideals of democracy. Through the greatest benefit derived from student self government lies in the opportunities it offers to students for training in self-expression and cooperative thinking.

It also strengthens the bond of sympathy between students, as it liberates the conception of school justice, beyond of trials by fellows. The last mentioned phase of student self government encourages school pride through personal responsibility, and makes for more intimate and friendly relations between students and faculty members.

High favorable comment has been heard on the competency of the retiring officers of the College Government association. They have carried their responsibilities with dignity and efficiency, and have retained their individuality, and personal interests apart from their official positions.

That student body has faith in the incoming officers of the College Government association was shown by their choice of these girls as representative of the Florida Flambeau, on behalf of the student body, to extend congratulations and wishes for success to the officials of the College Government association.

By sending out questionnaire to all alumni, Princeton University found out that the average alumnus owns one and nine-tenths automobile, six and a half rule of clothes, and has and four right kidneys.

Students Make Math Equipment

An abacus and a pantograph made by four of the students at Florida State College have been added to the equipment of the mathematics department. The abacus was made by Rhos Fromm and Virginia Burford, and the pantograph by Mabel Wright and Mildred Wilcox.

The abacus is a wooden frame with seven wires stretched across it, on which are a number of beads. The frame resembles a square tennis racket in its handle and outline. The first wire represents units, the second, tens, the third, hundreds, and so forth. Both addition and subtraction can Learning the use of the abacus is on the regular third grade curricula in Russia and Japan, and the clerks in China prefer it to western computing machines. It was invented in Japan in the 16th century, and is still in universal

In earlier times the abacus referred to a table covered with sand or a fine dust. The figures were drawn with a fine stylus and the marks erased with the fingers when necessary. This finally gave way to ruled tables upon which small disks were arranged on lines to indicate numbers. The last invention is the present table with counters fastened to the lines.

The pantograph is an instru-

All the dormitories had house phones, and the matron in charge of the office at that time would ring a certain number of times for the dormitory she wanted. If someone answered (though one matron said no one ever did) she would tell the person to send over a certain girl to meet her caller. This scheme, however, did not prove very successful.

But finally when the student was told of her caller and had come over to see him, she had no place to take him. The two little date rooms up stairs under the lower rooms were always filled, so that the couple could not stay. As many other couples had to sit out in the atrium or line around the balcony up stairs.

POST PERSONAL NOTICES

The maid did not take around notices of telegrams and messages to the rooms of the students at that time, because she didn't have time to go all over the dormitories. "ances together have matured. The slow motion was by Beethoven. In the variations the violin and cello blended with the piano deli-ately. Quality of tone. nuances, and constructive understanding make the work of the trio professionally artistic."

JUST LOCOED

People in and around Tallahassee with fives worth seeing—law students from all over the state up for the bar exams. (Congregational) candidates telling why they are wet or dry. Smokers at the college who don't care between classes after riding fifty miles in the mornings to get here. —Anybody in a political argument. Amateurs making public speeches—Coeds trying to look nunchalusi—Girls on College Avenue—Did I say faces?

Drug stores in the village report an increased sale in cosmetics. The new luxury tax takes effect sometime in June. Time now to lay in a big supply before it goes up ten per cent.

A midge and his manager attracted some attention in Buddy Pratt's new store. Maybe he wasn't a midge but he looked like one. The manager, if that was what he was, had a guitar. The midge's voice didn't carry very well. I couldn't hear him. I didn't try.

A few towels were seen striding through the gym the other afternoon with split towels around their neck. Some coeds were tall, some were short. The towels were the same size, apparently. The tall coeds were embarrassed. So was every one who saw them. They were barefooted. Some had big feet. Some had little feet. Big feet or little feet none of them felt comfortable. Evidently they had never had enough public speaking to remain unembarrassed on big or little barefooted feet.

Since last summer school the try on the buildings hasn't been cut, apparently. It's a summer job. Who ever moves the chain from the driveway as lunch hour is still just as slow. The summer school seems full of local talent, especially coeds.

Registration was lots faster this year than last. Nobody knows why unless it was the alphabetical arrangement. It worked pretty well. I don't know yet what the summer enrollment is. It doesn't seem any more or less. Everybody seems worried.

Only two houses are open, A. D. Pl. and Kynon Delta. Gilchrist is being worked over.

Kitchen Addition Being Built to Meet New Needs

New Structure Will Add 10,500 Square Feet of Floor Space

The Florida State College for Women is building a large addition to its kitchen. For more than five years the kitchen has been too small, and greatly in need of this additional 10,500 square feet of floor space. The addition provides for the enlargement of the bakery and refrigeration plants to double their present capacity, an extension of the linen room, and new dressing rooms, with showers, for both white and colored employees. The present small waitresses' dressing room will be enlarged to accommodate the hundred or more girls required to serve the 1,200 students who normally eat in the dining room during the regular sessions. Two skylights will be added, which will greatly increase lighting and ventilation.

The department for the preparation of foods will be moved back fifty feet. Wood and coal burning stoves will be replaced by electric ranges, which will eliminate smoke, make the kitchen cooler, and cook with a uniform heat. All factors considered, it is said that the annual cost of cooking with electricity will not exceed that of the use of wood and coal.

The dishwashing room which at present is located next to the dining room, will be moved to the extreme back part of the new addition. It will be provided with a noise-absorbing tiled canopy designed to muffle the noise of clattering dishes, and make the room almost sound proof.

Immediately upon the close of the summer school, the west wall of the present kitchen will be torn out and placed fifty feet farther back; and the whole kitchen between the north and south walls remodeled. Plaster and the wall form a wall—during four and a half feet high around the entire kitchen. Above that the walls will be finished with hard paint. By September 1, the opening day of the regular session, the modern kitchen will be ready for use.

Housing Report Shows Variety in Choice of Homes

Commuters and Day Students Number One-fourth

More than one-fourth of the total student body of 944 is living off campus this summer. Day students among the girls number two hundred and fifty, while all of the men are day students. This includes those who have their regular homes in Tallahassee, those who are staying with relatives, and those who are commuting.

Large Number Take Courses in Industrial Arts

There Are 114 in Primary And Intermediate Departments

One hundred and fourteen teachers are taking either primary or intermediate courses in Industrial Arts this summer. There are eighty-one in the primary department and thirty-three in the intermediate department, a notable increase over last summer's attendance of six.

Thus for the students have made and dressed paper dolls, made pencil sketches representing different types of women, have selected colors and clothed these figures according to complexion, and have dyed and stamped paper out of which to make portfolios in which to carry their art materials.

Industrial arts is taught by the approved method, a plan designed progressively to correlate one subject with other subjects and with life. For instance, if the pupils were engaged in building a house, the teacher would so direct the project that it would quite naturally relate itself to arithmetic, geography, history, and the like. This plan would be carried on by indicating the size of the house and each of its rooms, by considering the country and the acre in which the house is to be built, and by comparing it with houses of other ages.

Conradi Speaker at Kiwanis Club

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College, made an address at a fellow-day meeting of the Kiwanis club last Monday night on "Kiwans Objects and Objectives." This meeting was an "all-Kiwanis Night" program, and was held simultaneously with those of 1,835 other clubs in the United States and Canada. The "zero-minute" came at 9:45 and at that time the Kiwanians stood with bowed heads as a token of fellowship for other club memberships throughout the country.

S. R. Doyle, registrar of the college, read an "interclub" creed of Kiwanis International.

"All-Kiwanis Night" came while the annual convention of the latter national club was being held in Detroit. State Forester Harry L. Raker, and Dr. Mark F. Boyd of Tallahassee are delegates to this convention.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The tennis tournament sponsored by Miss Marion C. Phillips open to those wishing to compete for campus championships in men's and women's singles, doubles, and mixed singles and doubles will begin at 8:30 early date and last until winners have been chosen by the process of elimination. All students wishing to enter for these honors, see Miss Phillips as soon as possible and sign up for play. Twelve new courts have been added to those already in use. They are located directly behind the gym.

Andrews Leads Chapel Service Here Tuesday

Personal Director Tells Of Work in Her Department

Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews, of the personnel department, explained the work of her correlate one subject with other subjects and with life.

"We do not pretend to work magic," she said. "We cannot, after a short interview with the student, tell her exactly what her life work will be. All that we can do is to lead the girl to understand the nature of the work she is considering, and let her make her own decisions."

"The problem for professional training for women is indeed a difficult one, since eighty per cent of them will get married. However, girls are now becoming more versatile, and many are keeping on with their careers, even after marriage."

"In making a decision about her vocation, a girl must consider more than interest; she must consider her physical and mental abilities." (Continued on Page Three)

Graduates Given Lower Wing Broward Hall

Unusual Feature of Summer Term According to Dean Beckham

A separate division in the dormitories for graduate students is an unusual feature of this summer term, according to Dean Charlotte Beckham.

Last year, she says, a request came from graduate students asking that she consider giving them a separate dormitory, or wing of a dormitory. With the consent of Dr. Conradi and of the committee on student affairs, arrangements were made to set aside two floors in the south wing of Broward, and Mrs. M. S. Turner was placed in charge. She has, according to Dean Beckham, shown great interest in assisting the graduate students to adjust themselves to the new situation.

The principal privileges granted these students were the use of light until twelve o'clock, and the exclusive use of the Broward lounge. A few other concessions were also made.

All graduate students have organized a graduate club, and the students on the two floors have organized an additional organization, with Mrs. White as house chairman.

The plan is proving so successful that already several students who had not made reservations have moved into the hall.

"This is just the beginning of the plan," Dean Beckham says, "and if it proves to be as successful as it has been up to the present, next year added space will be set aside. The students have been extremely cooperative, and it has been a pleasure for me to work with them."

Students Have Long Week-End To Celebrate Fourth of July

According to a report of a recent meeting of the State Board of Control Florida State College has been granted a holiday July 4.

A great number of students will leave for various parts of the state and some will go out of the state to spend the three-day all home or with friends since the Fourth comes on Monday. Students who leave before classes are over on Friday, or fail to return in time for classes on Tuesday will receive double cuts for all classes missed.

Due to the fact that so many of the students are going to be out of town for the week-end and the Fourth there have been no activities planned. There are, however, plans being made to have a program in celebration of the Fourth on Tuesday when all the students have returned.

The festive spirit which prevails on this date is usually one of great excitement . . . fire-crackers, watermelon cuttings, fish fries, and swimming parties. This same spirit has prevailed since July 4, 1776 when, after the representatives of the thirteen colonies adopted the Declaration of Independence, the Liberty Bell was rung for two days. This date has since been set aside as a national holiday for the forty-eighth states, the 19th of Colombia, Porto Rico, and in these divisions of our world, all have found business celebrate the anniversary of national independence.

THE FOURTH OF JULY

In the fourth day of July some one hundred and fifty-six years ago, a group of men signed their names to a paper. We have known all about this paper since grammar school days, for the school authorities sent their all American school children to study the history of that nation which was born with the signing of this paper on that July day so long ago.

The signing of the Declaration of Independence is celebrated each year on its birth anniversary. But the spirit which carried the men of Washington through the terrible days of Valley Forge seems to be dying. These men gladly met death and disaster for the love of their country, and when victory was theirs, they set about their work, secure in the knowledge that the glory of fighting for their homes and their country was a reward sufficient unto itself.

Today we seem to have lost the spirit that was in the men and women of 1776. Today certain of the heroes of the last war have defamed the word "patriotism" and shamed their nation by their untimely demands on its empty treasury. For to many of them the glory of their deeds is only a ticket to a federal pension, and the glamour that surrounds them is only a cloud to blind a vote-grabbing politician into serving them in their rattle on the tax payers of the country.

Today our plea is not to beware of firecrackers, bursting in commemoration of '76, but it is a plea for carelessness on the highways where annually more lives are lost in this country than were lost in the Great War.

Perhaps times have changed. Perhaps we are merely meeting a new situation with good advice. Even so, don't let us forget why we have a holiday next Monday, and let us keep before the youth of America the reasons why we celebrate July the Fourth. Give them a real meaning for the word "patriotism," and don't let July the Fourth be just another holiday to them.

Why don't the men students challenge the faculty to a baseball game? In the past some very interesting games have been played, much color being added by the wild costumes of the faculty.

Dr. Raymond E. Bellamy, head of the sociology department, contends that circumstantial evidence is untrustworthy and should not be allowed to affect one's opinion of one's fellow men.

Mrs. Augusta Earhart Putnam tried and tried until finally succeeded in setting a bad example for other women to follow.

In a questionnaire recently distributed at Florida State College for Women, it was discovered that the girl's ideal man need be neither a volcano nor a Will Rogers—he just has to be himself. One girl's opinion: "I am willing to do without looks, money, brains and anything else, but the man I marry must have a sense of humor."

Worry is just paying interest on trouble before it falls due. Try meeting trouble as you do your next share of burdens.

Wonder how our roads like being tugged as dents of Florida State College for Women

'T WAS EVER THUS

Divers correspondents of The London Times have been defending or attacking "the manners of the young." The fruits of the controversy are as satisfactory as usual; the young have no manners; their manners are excellent; they are courteous to the old; they are discourteous to the old; they differ from the Victorians chiefly by their avoidance of pretence and hypocrisy; they respect their elders; when these deserve respect; they respect their elders not at all; there is more comradeship between parents and children than there used to be; surviving Victorians are sure there is less; the manners of the young show a want of feeling; from a larger knowledge of life and literature the imagination and scruples of the young have been quickened, so that their manners show a sincere feeling devoid of conventional veneer.

The philosopher might be content to assume that, irrespective of age or sex, some people have good manners and some haven't; and that from the broadening of communications and the spread or urbanization manners are much better than they used to be. To be assured of that one has only to remember the incredible brutalization alike of the London populace and the British agricultural districts in the eighteenth century. Of the perpetuity of the gibes at and solemn admonitions of the contemporary young woman there is a curious reminder in a letter written in 1755 by a great-great-uncle of one of the correspondents. In the age of reason and enlightenment:

"Our manners become more licentious.

"Our men are indifferent, our women

"Bold and assuming";

The girl miss of 15 is allowed to give her opinion on all subjects. She awes into silence her superiors in understanding, for who can fail to hold an argument with a flippancy tongue? The dress of the fair sex has become a matter of no small importance to many, the infringement on the male attire. The beaver hat flat on the forehead and placed over the left eye, with the thick muslin stock, were distinctions formerly to men, and in those days it was a woman's pride to be feminine. Now it seems to be her idea that she cannot be too masculine. But the more serious consideration is the very hideous undress of the present day; for to be perfectly fashionable is to be half-naked. The housemaid handkerchief, as it was called when introduced by a woman of the first fashion, is laid aside for the towel. Even the modesty piece recorded by The Spectator is forgotten. But let a woman remember that when she conceals her charms she attracts more; when she exposes them she disgusts.

What could be expected when older women set a bad example to the younger?

The name grandmother, once exciting almost adoration in the breast of her offspring, can now be looked at with contempt. The cold and pious, once much admired, are exchanged for the youthful bandage. Does an aged lady think she conceals her wrinkles by making herself conspicuous?

"Return, then, ye asked, to the respectability of dress that characterized the last generation." Put on the wise close cap, and the young women will add decorum to their manners. In the '60s Mrs. Lynn Linton stirred up all England by her attacks on "the girl of the period." In 1792 the girl of that

BOOK REVIEWS

THREE: GO BACK. By J. Leslie Mitchell. 292 pp. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill Company. $2.

The main contention of this novel—for it is an argumentative effort, attacking a popular notion—is more important than the novel. It is the author's theory that primitive man was not savage, but kind and happy; that man's "progress" has been a descent to brutality. In support of this belief, he has shown three modern characters a lady novelist, an ardent pacifist and an armaments manufacturer, living among the Cro-Magnards some twenty or thirty thousand years ago. A wrecked airship, time spirals, submarine earthquakes and a great strain on the imagination are required to get them there, but once those three dissimilar types are placed in a congenial, prehistoric society, the results are mildly entertaining.

The story begins with the wreck of the airship, Magellan's Cloud. The pacifist, Sinclair, holds that all the hypothesis that in things and people and the relations between them there dwells some sort of power of which mankind is as yet only dimly and fearfully—and then only occasionally—conscious, that thus far is beyond his control, "a wild race, an uncutivated, rude, uncurable power." He envisages it as being an illumination of the old controversy of the action of mind upon matter, a problem which, he thinks, can be "rendered into thinkable terms by asking whether mind-matter can act upon matter-mind." Quoting from a recently reported interview with Dr. Compton of the University of Chicago the statement that the new physics admits the possibility of the action of mind on matter, Mr. Fort gives such a power the name of "mechanical witchcraft." In the last chapter the author discusses at some length the famous fuel-less motor of J. W. Keely which a generation ago attracted wide attention and sees its explanation in the influence upon the machine of the man who made it, its motivation "a wild talent." Mr. Fort's death only a few weeks ago brings to an untimely end his investigations and daring hypotheses. It would have been most interesting to see what wild and startling conclusions further exploration might have led him to.

State Graduates of Tallahassee Wed This Year

Midsummer Months Are Wedding Dates of Five Girls

Five graduates of Florida State College for Women, who are residents of Tallahassee, are soon to be united in that little handbook of Florida Alumnae, under new names known as "Dun Capid" has been made active during the past winter, as a result three weddings are scheduled for the month of June and two for July.

Mary Bannerman of the class of 1929, member of the Sigma Kappa society, was the first to leave the home of spinsterhood. She was married at the Episcopal Church in Tallahassee on June 7, to Francis Marion Zeiler of South Carolina and Greenville, Florida. She and her husband will make their home here.

Elizabeth Beard, R.S. '31, also a Sigma Kappa, took the step next. She was married to Grace Smith, who holds a position with Phillips, Inc., on June 10, at the home of the bride's father, for Mr. Rufus Smith.

On Wednesday evening of this week, at 8:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, Evelyn Hill, B.M., who was married to Kenneth Brown, head of the economics department of Davidson College, North Carolina. Announcement has been made of marriage of Carolyn Folsom, R.S. '32, who has taught for the past two years in Cocoa, to Frank Hamilton Whitley, of Cocoa, on June 19. The wedding will take place in Wauchula, Florida, the former home of the bride.

The marriage of Anna Leman, R.S. '27, member of the faculty at a high school, to D. E. West, Agent for the Texas Co. in Tampa, will be solemnized at 12:00 o'clock July 1, at the home of the bride's mother on North Monroe St. until July parties of all kinds have been given by friends in honor of these charming bride-elect, making the social calendar for the month as one of the fullest for several seasons past, and attesting the esteem and admiration in which the girls are held in their home community.

COMPANY BUYS BOOKS

Representatives of the Missouri State Company are now here, a number of books no longer in the campus. The company will sell its headquarters in the book store until July 1. A list of the books that they will buy, and the price that they will pay is posted in a bulletin on the first floor of Administration building, near bookstore.

Dean Beckham Makes Changes in Council

The name, Student Welfare Committee, has been changed this summer to the Summer School Council, according to Charlotte Beckham, dean of students.

"For the last few summers," Dean Beckham says, "frequent objections have been heard on campus to the use of the term Student Welfare Committee," referring to that organization that corresponds in part to the Judiciary Association of the regular term. At the beginning of this summer, the dean of students changed the name to Summer School Council and also made changes in the personnel of the organization. The council now consists of the dean of students, chairman; director of residence halls; director of social activities; directors of each hall; chairman of chairmen; house chairmen; and vice-house chairmen.

This committee meets every Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the office of the dean of students, at which time matters of interest and those of problematic nature are taken up for discussion and solution. Dean Beckham expresses her belief as being greatly pleased over the fine cooperative spirit shown by this group and by the nature of the work they are doing.

AT THE STATE

THIS WEEK-END

"Bachelor's Affairs," which is the featured ride, comes to the State Theatre for Friday and Saturday's program. . . Based on James Fergus' successful stage play, it tells the story of a middle-aged bachelor who, through the machinations of the girl's sister, marries a youthful daughter of the beautiful but not brilliant type. Events soon prove to him that he has made a serious mistake and he sets about to extricate himself from the entanglement in which he finds himself.

Mina Gornell, one of the outstanding comedienne of this city, appears in the leading role of the gold digging sister, and Joan Marsh, one of the most beautiful blondes in motion pictures, portrays the role of the girl. Other favorites in its program roles include John Litvart, Herbert Mundin, Arthur Vernon, Irene Purcell and Don Alameda.

Lavish sets revolve themselves with Meghan's rare effects. . . Fully featured.

Excursion Rates for July 1

The Seaboard railway is offering a $5.00 round trip excursion to Atlanta for the week ending July 4. Tickets are on sale from through July 2, and may be purchased at the city ticket office at the railway station.

Ad Building Has Interesting Past

Considering the number and size of the modern class buildings now here on the campus of Florida State College it is hard to realize that in 1910, when it was first built, the Administration building accommodated the entire academic departments. Besides Miss Tracy's cottage, which accommodated the school's school it was the only class building. In it were all the classrooms and executive offices.

The only offices in the Ad building at that time were those of the president and of the business manager. That of the president was located where Mr. Kohn now has his office. The offices of the business manager and his secretary occupied only the space now used for the office of his secretary and half of the present school bank. Then there was no personnel director or dean of students. The library was in the room where the old Little Theater now is until 1921, when the west wing of the present library was built.

In 1910 the Chemistry department was on the first floor of the Ad building where the college book store and the language office rooms are at present. The Biology department was in room 3 which is now a music room.

In 1915 the Education building was built. This took some of the departments out of the Ad building and gave room for expansion in all departments. In 1921-22 the Science hall was built so the Chemistry, Home Economics and Extension departments were moved there. At the same time several changes were made in the auditorium. Thirty-two feet were added to the rear. This extension included the stage as it is now and the music room on either side and beneath the stage. The floor was cut out in order to give the balcony as it is at present and the flat ceiling was changed into a beamed one.

Also in 1921-22 the offices were remodelled and extended. The president's office was moved to its present position and the business manager's office, that of his secretary and of the registrar were moved to their present location.

The Administration building cost approximately $100,000, including the price of the furniture. Up until the present date all the changes which have been made on it have been estimated at $115,000.

HOUSING REPORT SHOWS VARIETY IN

COLLEGE EXCHANGES

Two Wake Forest, North Carolina, students who "are fondly in need of money to continue college educations" recently filed an application at the state prison for the position of "electro-technicians." It was sent by Frank Bucknere, of Warsaw, and Jesse L. Burgess, who told J. K. Powell, prison stationer-in-charge, "but they understood that the state paid $25 to the man throwing the electric switch. The boys, who room together, added "we need all the money we can get."

Lost Articles in Bryan Hall Office

Articles which have been lost may be found in the office at Bryan Hall. It is the custom of this office, after a certain length of time, to sell these articles at auction. Students who have lost anything are urged by Miss Bellinger to come and make claims immediately.

The present time Miss Bellinger is holding a white coin purse, one fountain pen; an "everday" pencil; a Peninsular Casket key ring; a pair of crystal beads; four bar pins; three of which are jeweled; six rings; a compass case with the name M. M. Taylor on it; one umbrella; a senior sown, and an S. A. E. fraternity pin. There are also three coats, one tan, one blue, and one black satin; two pairs of white sport gloves; and several silk dance handkerchiefs.

Informal Party at Gymnasium Proves Most Delightful Affair

One of the most enjoyable affairs on the campus last week was the party and dance given at the gymnasium last Friday from 8:30-10:30 p. m., in honor of Florida State College students and their friends. Miss Katherine Montgomery was in charge of the entertainment.

Upon arrival, the guests were asked to find a partner and join in the grand march, which was led by Miss Gene Mathewson and Mr. Miles. After participation in the intricate steps of "Grand March," the guests were divided into two groups. Mrs. Raymond Bellamy was chosen to be the leader of the "Torpedoes" and Miss Gene Mathewson was the leader of the "Wamungus," which name was proposed by Mr. Raymond Bellamy. The group selected representative teams for the various sports to be indulged in which included clock golf, table tennis, bowling, shuffleboard and swimming. Results as announced by Mr. Miles, showed that the "Torpedoes" scored thirty-four points and the "Wamungus" scored thirty-two points. A beautiful ebony cup was presented to Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, leader of the "Torpedoes." Because Mr. Miles, a loyal member of the Wamungus, admonished the Torpedoes to refrain from "crowling" over victory, the cup was humbly received.

After the awarding of the cup, dancing was enjoyed, with Miss Marion C. Phillips furnishing the music.

An interesting part of the program was the group singing led by Miss Marion C. Phillips of Orlando and Miss Buddy Axtell. PUNCH was served during the evening. About 250 students and faculty members were present.

Watermelon Cutting Given by Miss Tracy

A watermelon cutting in honor of summer school students was given to Miss Annie Mae Tracy in the dining room until 12:30 p. m.

About four hundred tired students decided to drown their sorrows in ice-cold watermelon. Soon the lunch scene carried out a red and green color scheme, which meant that about eighty huge watermelons had been slaughtered for a worthy cause. Judging from the gasping for breath as some came up for air, and the laborious trudging back to the dormitories with that "watermelon smile," the watermelon cutting proved to be a success that would be worth repeating.

Chapel Program Tuesday Reflects Patriotic Idea

President Gives Talk Following Musical Numbers

The musical program was given at the chapel Tuesday, followed by a sermon on the true meaning of July 4th by Dr. Edward Conradi. The orchestral ensemble which is under the direction of Walter Ruel Jones, and which has been organized this summer for the first time, made its initial appearance. The ensemble played a series of musical compositions. William Moldrum, director of the band at the William Wood's College at Fulton, Missouri, rendered a delightful selection. He played a Nocturne, by Chopin, and a piece by Sinding. He is considered a very talented pianist, and his appreciation of the audience was shown by continued applause. The commemoration of the Fourth of July by Kila Seible Opperman, of the college of music, played a series of patriotic selections. This series included most of the patriotic songs of the summer, and it was climaxed by a patriotic anthem, the Star

Browsing Section of Library Gives Choice Selection

Number of Rare Volumes To Be Found Here in Reserve Space

The browsing room of the Florida State College library, a room set apart for leisure reading and said to be the only one of its kind in the South, is maintaining a browsing section for the pleasure of the students of the summer session. It is a large, high-ceilinged front room, just above the main vestibule, and contains a single Tudor window which overlooks the beautiful campus.

The browsing room was furnished entirely by contributions, since no appropriation was made for equipment or books. The class of 1926 contributed $456.66 for illustrated works, such as Everyman, decorated by Leonardo da Vinci.

Other books in the browsing room include the Bible, the Koran, and the Talmud. There are also many books of poetry, fiction, and history. The browsing room is a most attractive and useful part of the library.

College Gardens and Farm Yield Supply of Food

Sale of Surplus Food Makes College Farm Self-Supporting

It is more to the feeding of students of Florida State College than appears to the superficial observer in the dining hall. Although large quantities of food are purchased and shipped here by rail, the college gardens and the college farm supply the fresh vegetables, cream, and pork that are used in much of the college fare, the college gardens, and the college dairy.

There are four hundred and sixty acres of land in the farm, located in the middle of town. On the farm are grown most of the big melons, tomatoes, radishes, cucumbers, while small table vegetables are grown on the two hundred and sixty acre garden adjoining the farm.

The dairy, across from the north corner of the campus, has a nine hundred and seventy-five head of cows. On an average one hundred and thirty-five gallons of milk are furnished by this dairy to the college dining hall.

From the college farm are two hundred head of hogs. An interesting fact is that no feed need be bought for these hogs, since the leftovers from the dining hall more than support them. The hogs yield 40,000 pounds of pork a year.

The greater part of the produce raised on the farm is used by the college. The surplus is sold, thus making the farm self-supporting.

Co-Eds Win First Game With Score of 21 to 12

Last Wednesday night the State College co-eds collected 21 points to win their season's first basketball game, while their opponents were picked from Tallahassee's best but could score only 12 points. Since the game was arranged in the last minute, both teams were severely handicapped by lack of teamwork and practice. Despite this, the teams showed good form and fought throughout the game. The visitors, excellent in passing and the co-eds in shooting goals.

The coeds not having enough players drafted "Buck" Bellamy from the men team. His brilliant play made him the individual star of the evening. Crawford, Bellamy, and Goodenough starred for the co-eds, and Reister and Cheek for the visitors. Niblack and Finer acted as referees.

The game was fairly well attended considering the lack of suitable arrangements and publicity. Those attending were treated in a smoothly playing game.

Annual Boat Trip to Take Place July 16

All students who wish to take the boat trip July 16, which has been planned by Miss Kemper Moore, assistant director of student activities, are requested to sign up with her and pay the charge of two dollars before July 9.

The party will leave for Newport immediately after breakfast Saturday morning, July 16. From Newport they will sail down the St. Marks river to St. Marks, where they will stop to visit places of historical interest. Then they will go on down the river to the headquarters and anchor. Here the passengers may swim, fish, or amuse themselves on the boat. After a sail on the gulf, the party will come up the St. Marks river to enjoy that beautiful "made to order" fall moon, which will be furnished especially for the occasion. If you can't secure transportation, see Miss Moore. Transportation charges are one dollar extra.

Through the Flambeau the co-eds want to thank Miss Katherine Montgomery for her kindness and co-operation in basket ball and other sports.

Mrs. Haun has sung several light opera roles in the United States and in Europe and Australia. She is well known to Tallahassee audiences, having appeared in concert here for two previous summer seasons.

She is here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reer, on West College avenue.

The date of the concert will be announced later.

Richards Talks Wednesday Nite Little Theatre

"Mountains and Craters of the Moon" Is Subject

Dr. Harold F. Richards, head of the Physics department, will lecture on "Mountains and Craters of the Moon" Wednesday, July 13, at 7:30 p. m. in the Augusta Connors Little Theater.

After the lecture an opportunity will be given members of the audience to study the geography and topography of the surface of the moon and see the mountains and craters. Dr. Richards will be in charge of the observation. During the lecture, cards admitting the audience to the telescope will be distributed.

The telescope is one of the largest and most powerful portable telescopes in the world. The large objective lens has a light-gathering power equivalent to that of about a thousand human eyes. By using different eye pieces, magnifying powers ranging from fifty to three hundred and fifty times can be used. The largest magnifying power has the effect of bringing the moon from its actual distance of two hundred thirty-five thousand miles up to the eye striking distance of a few hundred miles.

Last year this large telescope was mounted on a big, specially made truck, so that it could serve very conveniently as an "observatory on wheels."

Many will probably be glad of this opportunity to learn the intimate details of the moon. Although seen by everyone thousands of times in a lifetime, it still remains a mystery to the average person. A fact that many do not appreciate is that astronomers know the geography and topography of the moon almost as well as that of the earth.

WEEK-END VISITORS

Among the visitors on the campus last weekend were, Mr. Hudson, Mr. Kerling, Mr. Bonedick, Mr. C. B. Vance, and Mr. Croswell of Gainesville; Mr. Clyde Sals, Calhoun; Mr. John Lazzaro, Mr. Arthur Davis, Mr. Tony Accardi, and Mr. Frank Laderbach of Tampa; Mr. McDonald, Crestview; Mr. Byrd, Monticello; Mr. Joe Stads, Griffin; Mr. Curtis Cannon, Jay; Mr. Cannon, Leesburg; Mr. Chapman, Winter Garden; Mr. S. H. Bridges, Atlanta; Mr. Terrell (a monk), Jay; Mr. Chas. Husty; and Mr. Lucien Lome, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Lelloy Addison, Mr. Pace, Mr. Rodney, Mr. Bill Jacobs, Mr. Bob Macdon, Mr. Simpson Helms, Mr. L. Ashkenazy, Mr. Council, and Mr. Hanson of Tallahassee.

DEVOTIONAL FOR SUNDAY

The Rev. E. N. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will conduct the devotional services in the Augusta Connors Little Theater, Sunday, July 10.

Miss Margaret Allen will play a violin selection. She will be accompanied by Walter Reed Coxley, of the music department.

SIGNBOARDS IN EVERY BUILDING PROVE HELPFUL

topped by pictures suggesting how one may arrange to have his own picture accompany his application for next year's position.

The Placement Bureau and Personnel department boasts a bulletin board, where Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, gives out information from time to time.

Just beyond, the Y. W. C. A. has its space near the stairway, and not very far off, one can find literary hours and rules posted, as well as a schedule of infirmatory hours. The student seeking information as to activities of interest or information necessary to the well informed, can find the answers to his questions on the lower floor of the Administration building.

Brief notices regarding tennis matches may be found on this same hall, but more detailed information can be had from the board in the Physical Education building, popularly known as the "gym."

Outside the sphere of the average student's interest would be the bulletin boards of the Demonstration school, containing the notices of class hours and activities and those of the Music annex. Of interest here are radio and recital programs, and announcements and clippings from musical magazines relating to artists who appear in concert at the college. One likes to tarry longest here, perhaps, to catch glimpses of good things to come, and to look forward to the themes suggested by some thoughtful place of bulletin notices who has posted, along with more prosaic things, the bit of verse from Longfellow, which promises, "And the night shall be filled with music."

And the cares that infest the day, Shall fold their tents, like the Arabs, And silently steal away."

First Graders Give Mother Goose Play

An unusual feature of the weekly assembly of the Demonstration School of Florida State College was a Mother Goose play presented by the children of the first grade.

The play was directed by Mrs. Lucille Ingraham, teacher of dramatics, and by Mrs. Caroline A. Stout, teacher of the first grade. The children were charmingly costumed, and there was evidence of fine training in the ease and poise with which each child played his or her part.

Gilchrist Award Goes to Tait and Nall Next Year

Scholarships Are Awarded Two Honor Students of Junior Class

Miss Dorothy Tait of Jacksonville, and Miss Sara Nall of Miami, who in order to obtain a college education, have worked their way through the first three years of Florida State College for Women, have just been awarded the Gilchrist scholarship for their senior year. Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, chairman of the scholarship committee, announced today.

The announcement came, following a meeting of the state board of control in Jacksonville on Monday, July 11, at which time members of the board approved the Misses Tait and Nall as the scholarship girls for next year. The Gilchrist scholarships, which are awarded every year to two juniors or seniors working their way through college who have shown outstanding ability and achievement throughout their college years, were provided for in the will of the late ex-Governor Gilchrist and are the only gift scholarships under college supervision.
The scholarships provide for a greater part of expenses for one year of college.

Although Miss Tait and Miss Nall spend a number of hours working each day to pay for their college expenses, they found time not only to study and make scholastic averages which were among the highest in the college, but they also found time in which to participate in college extra-curricular activities. Both were chosen for campus offices in their freshman year when they were selected members of the freshman cabinet of the college.

Study of Moon Romantic Art Says Richards

Physicist Believes Rocket Will Reach the Moon Within 25 Years

"Mountains and Craters of the Moon" was the subject of a lecture given by Dr. Harold F. Richards, head of the Physics department,
Wednesday night in the Augusta Crescent Little Theater.

"The study of the moon is a romantic art," said Dr. Richards, "and we all more or less suffer with that prevalent summer complaint known as moon madness; especially when we give it too much of our attention."

The moon is our nearest neighbor, and is very easily studied because of this fact. The moon is very large, as a moon, but is very small, astronomically speaking. It has a diameter of 215,946 miles.

College Avenue, Tallahassee.
She is a graduate in voice of the class of 1921 at Florida State Col-sang the leading role in "Princess Charming" for one season in Australia. In America she has sung with the Cincinnati Symphony Orin New York City for the past few years. Mrs. Haun sang the leading role one season in New York City in the revival of Gilbert and Sulli-ers." Last season she sang in the principal cities of the United States with great success in "Blossom

Time," the beautiful story of Franz Schubert's life.

The concert was given complimentary to Mrs. Haun's friends in

Laundry Offers Unusual Service For College Dormitory Students

By ALVINDA FORESTER

A new laundry, finished between the winter and the summer terms, is now ready for use in the basement of the west wing of Reynolds hall. Complete in every particular, the laundry was furnished at a cost of about $1500.

The facilities are such that the college girl can do, in a single hour, her week's washing and ironing, which would cost on an average of a dollar. The cost to her, ten cents an hour, is just enough to cover the depreciation of equipment and the cost of electricity, and, since the college gets low rates, is less than it would cost a city laundry for

electricity to do the same amount of work.

The laundry is a large room, with white ceiling and walls. The floor of cement contains a number of drains, so that the floor may be washed daily by hose. Five windows and a ventilator that forces all of the hot air outside, keep the room cooler than most of the rooms of the dormitories.

As one enters the room he sees on the right hand row gleaming white enamel tubs, with both hot and cold water. The walls on this side are tiled to about four feet from the floor. These cream colored tiles are more easily washed than is the white plaster, so less

Religious Workers Council Conducts Chapel Program

Members of Council Are Introduced to the Student Group

Last Tuesday morning the Religious Workers Council conducted a chapel program in the presence of the members who were seated on the platform were introduced by the president of the council, Mrs. W. L. Harrell.

Rev. W. F. Dunkle, pastor of the Methodist church, read the scripture, and Rev. S. A. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave the morning prayer. Rev. E. N. Maxwell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in a brief talk, gave the purpose of the Religious Workers Council on the campus. It is to give the spiritual goods and to help them if possible. Rev. Maxwell admonished the students to remember the spiritual goods of members of life at all times.

At 5:30 p. m., the members of the council and representatives of the various religious organizations were special guests in the college room for dinner.

At 7:30 p. m., the mid-summer meeting of the council was held in the Charlotte Bockham's office. The members of the council are: Dr. Howard Conrad, Dean Charlotte Bockham, Prof. Arthur Williams, Dr. S. A. Campbell, Mr. Katherine Boyd, Dr. W. F. Dunkle, Dr. Rev. Maxwell, Rev. Paul Simon, Father Kane, Christian Science Reader, and the student secretaries.

GILCHRIST AWARO

(Continued from Page One) continued since that time they have outstanding leaders in campus activities. During the coming year, Miss Tait will serve as the world citizenship representative to the college. W. W. C. A. while Miss Tait will serve as house chairman of College Government Association.

Miss Tait is enrolled in the school of Music and holds membership in the Student Board, honorary organization, while Miss Tait is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi, honorary education fraternity.

Other activities of Miss Tait during the first three college years include membership in freshman commission of the College Government Association and membership in the executive cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Miss Tait has been extremely active in the musical organizations on campus, having been a member of the college orchestra, the college choir, the a cappella, and the Y. W. C. A. choir. She has also served as secretary of the college Y. W. C. A. and as sports and music editor of the Flambeau, the college's only newspaper.

Miss Sarah Mae Love was the one of friends in Quincy the past weekend.

LAUNDRY OFFERS UNUSUAL SERVICE

Next to the last tub is the pale green electric washing machine. This machine, one of the best of its kind, is large enough to wash eight sheets at once, so furnishes ample capacity for a complete week's washing for one girl.

The girl desiring to do her laundry has only to empty her clothes in the washer, sprinkle soap powder, or flakes, over them, and fill the tub of the washer through a hose with either hot or cold water. The center of the tub rotates, forcing suds through the clothes, and knocking the dirt out. Even silk clothes may be safely washed in this machine. While the machine is in operation, the water is heating, so that clothes may be practically boiled, if the student so desires.

When the clothes have been in the washer for some minutes (the exact time depending on the individual needs) cold water must be turned over them in order to cool them. Then they may be put through the wringer, from which the suds are easily removed. With the aid of a short hose they may be thoroughly rinsed, and then put through the wringer a second time. The wringer with the fixed rollers, from which the clothes may be carried to the dryer which is located in a small wing of the room.

The dryer is a large metal container, divided from top to bottom in six sections. Each section has a number of rods over which the clothes may be hung, and is large enough to hold a complete wash if the dryer is hot, five minutes is sufficient to dry clothes enough for ironing.

Eight new electric irons, with stoves to regulate heat; and eight new ironing boards, are located along the north side of the room. Two more irons and two boards are in the northeast corner, and will be run from end to end of the room, near the boards, and high enough that freshly ironed clothes may be placed where they will not be in danger of marring. This addition is expected to be made by the beginning of next week.

It is intended that a stock of soaps, soap powders, and starches will be placed on sale in the laundry, so that girls will not be required to go off campus to get their supplies. Clothes may also be left with Mrs. Jones, in charge of the laundry, where they

Dr. Cotterill Speaks on Washington Theme

In connection with the bi-centennial celebration of Washington, Dr. Robert S. Cotterill, professor of history, read a paper on "Washington Walks in Elysium" Tuesday afternoon in Bryan Hall sun parlors.

Dr. Cotterill said, with characteristic humor, that since all phases of Washington's life had been discussed already he would tell about Washington in Heaven.

After explaining why Washington deserved to—and really did go to Heaven, Dr. Cotterill related the conversation between Washington and his friends, Jefferson, Adams, Hamilton, Franklin, and Marshall, on the bank of the beautiful River of Life. These revered statesmen were interested in reminiscences of their experiences on earth.

Washington's opinion was that it would be better to celebrate one's dying, rather than one's birth-day. Then people would celebrate because some lived and because others died.

Dr. Cotterill in this paper gave a fanciful view of the heavenly bliss enjoyed by the departed Father of our country.

will be lauded for a nominal sum.

According to Mr. Kellum, the number of ironing boards, irons and tubs will be doubled if the need becomes great enough. Thus far, few girls have made use of the facilities offered, but it is thought that this may be caused by lack of knowledge of their presence.

Mr. Kellum also announces that next year all bed linen and towels may be done by the laundry to the symposium. One day a week will be given to the laundry from each dormitory. The linen may be given in the morning, and for a small cost, will be washed and returned that evening.

"By this plan," Mr. Kellum says, "we expect to save for the girls, and to give them a greater feeling of safety concerning the condition of their linen."

Croquet Fields Will Be Scene of Tournament

Students Are Great Enthusiasts of Evening Diversion

The enthusiasm for that stately sport "croquet" is surprising; any that has ever been shown on the college campus, with the possible exception of tennis. So great is this enthusiasm that tournaments are now being arranged and girls are eagerly waiting up for the contests which will take place within a few days.

Croquet is a revival of the "razzies" and has steadily increased in popularity here in the last few years. Every night after dinner there is a mad rush to get to the balls and mallets before they are all taken, for it's a "grab-and-growl" situation. The spectators are quite as numerous as the players, even Tallahasseeans frequently stop and watch the picturesque game.

The tournaments which have been planned will be both single and double matches. There will be elimination contests and runners up, and possibly cups will be awarded to the winners.

All of those interested are urged to start training while it is still early in the season. Participants are advised to give up all stimulants and sweets and to go out for practicing in a hazy way for the honor of old Alma Mater.

Florida Girls Motor to See Olympic Games

Five girls, graduates and students of Florida State college, left last Saturday for a motor trip to California where they will attend the Olympic games.

Sue Maxwell of Palokoe, and Sue White of Pensacola, who graduated this year; Oeta White of Pensacola, and Nan Allen of Ft. Lauderdale, members of the senior class of 1932; and Mary Porter Allen, class of '34, are making the trip in the Whites' car. They left Pensacola Monday of this week and expect to be away about seven weeks.

They plan to go west by the northern route, visiting Yellowstone Park and the Grand Canyon, and to return by way of the southern route which will take them across the border into Mexico, visiting Juarez and other places near the border.

STUDY OF MOON

which is one-fourth the diameter of the earth. The moon's area is a little more than one-sixteenth of the size of the earth.

Dr. Richards explained that though the moon is always falling it falls at such a curve that it is kept from crashing into the earth.

Dr. Richards said that he was willing to believe that within twenty-five years a rocket ship will be built that will reach the moon. He further stated that he thought that within the next century man would have visited the moon.

Conditions on the moon are extremely different from those that we are used to. There is no atmosphere on the moon, small force of gravitation, no weather, no wind, no sound, no water, and in fact no living thing.

The continuous circuit of the moon has kept man from seeing the other side. There are fourteen days of light on the moon. After the sun comes up the temperature on the moon rises to 248 degrees Fahrenheit, and after the sun has set there are 14 days of darkness in which the temperature falls to 112 degrees below zero. The great difference in the temperature causes a vast amount of contraction and expansion on the moon.

The first authentic map of the moon was made in 1537 and since then there have been no changes discovered.

After the lecture the audience was presented with tickets which gave them permission to look at the moon through the telescope. This telescope is one of the largest and most powerful portable telescopes in the world. The largest magnifying power on the telescope has the effect of bringing the moon from its actual distance of 339,000 miles up to the distance of a few hundred miles.

Cathedraler Talks on Cathedrals of the Middle Ages

Illustrates Lecture On Gothic Churches of Europe

The great Gothic cathedrals of Europe as they represent the achievement of Christian art in the Middle Ages was the subject of a lecture last Monday evening in the Augusta Conrad Little Theatre by Dr. Marjorie Batchelder.

Dr. Batchelder, who was introduced by Dr. Kathryn Abbey, followed her discourse with a series of slides of Europe's most famous cathedrals. Milan, Venice, Rheims, Cologne, Seville, and Canterbury, and related her subject to political, social, and economic changes of the various countries. She said the cathedrals were built, as she showed them in the Middle Ages, Christian life revolved around cathedrals which physically and spiritually dominated the towns. She explained that cathedrals were the work of any particular architect or builders, but were the growth of the collective effort of the people, all of whom contributed something either in material or workmanship, and that the final result represented the common aspirations. Thus, the cathedrals built when the authority of the Church was supreme and its sacrament, had a very deep meaning, and typified the spirit of the age.

Dr. Batchelder traced the evolution of the cathedral from its earliest beginning at Rome as represented in the Palace of Justinian, through the Romanesque and Renaissance periods, showing the gradual and significant changes in the development of the Gothic, vaulted ceiling, Roman arches, ribbed vaulting, flying buttresses and side chapels. She concluded the graceful, manly cathedral at Milan with the massiveness of the cathedral at Cologne.

Department of Speech to Give Plays This Week

Classes in Drama Give Variety of Types in Plays Presented

Three one-act plays are to be presented in two evenings next week by students of Speech 301 under direction of Miss Elizabeth Thompson. The plays, "A Woman of Judgment," by Leon M. Pearson, and "Elizabeth's Young Man," by Louise Seymore Johnson, have been selected for presentation Tuesday evening at 8:15. "A Man of Ideas," by Phoebe Hoffman, will be given Saturday at the same hour.

The class in drama for the summer semester has been divided into three sections and each section is to be responsible for the presentation of one play. Chairmen and casts have been chosen by Miss Thompson with a view toward selecting the best talent for the various types of plays to be presented. The students are preparing stage sets and scenery for the plays which will be given in the Augusta Conrad Little Theatre. For the third play, "A Man of Ideas," which demands an exterior set, the scenery is being constructed by the groups of students working on the play, and is under direction of Dorothy Blaney and Mary Ruth Clark, advanced students in Spoken English.

Contract Let For Paving Campus Roads Recently

Construction Co. Promises to Complete Work by Fall Term

A contract for a road to be paved across the campus of Florida State College was let in the J. R. McCarty Company of Atlanta, by the State Road Department last Wednesday. Work on the road will start in a few weeks so that it may be completed by the beginning of the winter session of school.

The road, which will be nine-tenths miles long, and twenty-four feet wide, will start in front of Gilchrist Hall, and will curve westward behind the cottage of Mr. J. P. Love, superintendent of the college farm, to meet the short stretch that is already paved in front of the gymnasium. This stretch will be extended to meet Call street, which is at present paved only as far as the grounds of the college.

Another road will be paved by front of Reynolds, and Jennie Murphy Hall, across the campus to Call street.

When the new road is finished, the road extending behind the kitchen to meet the old bicycle track, which has been used almost exclusively until the present, will no longer be used.

The total cost of the road, including grading, curbing, drainage, and kitchen to meet the old bicycle track, which has been used almost exclusively until the present, will be $20,000.00, which amount is to be taken from the general funds allotted by the legislature for the building of roads this year.

It will consist of two apartments, one on the upper floor and one on the lower. There will be six rooms in each apartment.

The house was started a month ago, and will be finished, Dr. Andrews hopes, by the first of September. Mr. M. E. Parker, of this city, is the builder. Mr. A. R. Moore, the architect.

Science Company Gives Electrical Exhibition Here

Laboratory Apparatus To Be Used At Chicago World's Fair

The Central Scientific company, of Chicago, Illinois, has just completed an exhibit of unusual and modern laboratory apparatus in the physics laboratory of the administration building.

Among the most interesting of the apparatus on exhibit was a photoelectric cell. By means of this instrument the principle of light was illustrated which will be used to turn on all the lights at the World Fair at Chicago in 1933. The light which will start the current and throw on the switch was radiated forty years ago when the last World Fair was held. A powerful

Siamese Customs Told in Lecture of Dr. Bhayung

In America on Mission Studying Science And Health

Dr. L. Bhayung of Bangkok, Siam, on a scientific mission to this country in the interest of health, under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation of New York, delivered a lecture on Siam in the Little Theatre on Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Bhayung, who was introduced by Mr. Milton Smith, former editor of the Tallahassee Daily News, apologized for his inability to speak the English language fluently, as much as he had been in this country but ten months. He passed through among the audience clippings from various illustrated newspapers and weekly reviews of Siam, containing pictures of the king, a bridge recently opened, Siamese of Siam greeting Western visitors, and the like.

Dr. Bhayung located for the audience on a map of the world the Kingdom of Siam, and traced its geographical boundaries. He then reviewed its political growth from barbarism to its present absolute monarchy; touched upon the introduction of western civilization in the 18th century; and spoke of its tropical climate, its three seasons—rainy, dry, and cold—and its annual rainfall of four hundred inches.

"All the fruits of southeastern Asia abound in Siam," said Dr. Bhayung. "Rice is its principal money crop, but sweet potatoes, corn, and beans, and many other grains, pineapples, sugar cane, black pepper, tobacco and cotton are plentiful. Tin, iron, copper, lead, and some gold are mined. Fruits inhabiting the jungles are hogwood, bear, monkey, buffalo, rhinoceros and elephant, the latter

Department of Extension Service Is of Benefit to Rural Sections

Home Demonstration workers of the Florida Extension Service found twelve months in the year," said Miss Bertha McNeill in review the work of the Home Economics Extension department of Florida State College for Women.

Therefore we are not a part of the summer school session and we do not have our own summer session, the 'short course' held each year at the close of regular session and before the opening of summer

Extension work was begun by the department of agriculture at Washington twenty-two years ago. Florida inaugurated the service the following year. The number started in the first short course in 1911 was about one dozen girls. This year 40 girls were admitted here after the number had been limited by counties to secure accommodations. Thirty counties participate in the state organization, have their own county demonstration agents women who direct the girls' and women's work in rural

College Floral Nursery Supplies Variety of Plants for Grounds

By ALICE W. WILLIAMSON
As one passes through the stately gates which form the entrance to the Florida State College at Tallahassee, and sees the green lawn with its colorful flower beds, massed banks of Hydrangeas with their blue and white blossoms, tall evergreen trees, box-wood hedges and flower vines all over the buildings, he does not realize that all of these plants are grown here on the campus in the college nursery.

This nursery is situated in the most attractive part of the college grounds, there being two acres of land devoted to the growing of flowers and small vegetables. In a wire-fenced enclosure are several different flowering plants.

One sees Red Day roses, pink and yellow tea roses together with the stately Red Jack rose, there being 1500 Red roses not out last winter. Tall straggly pink and red Gladioli, canna lilies in three shades of pink, sinias growing in abundance with a variety of cactus—shading from deep red with a light red border to pink. The blue bachelor's button lift its head beside the white

LATE HOURS

A scientist connected with the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, who has been engaged in experiments designed to add to our information concerning sleep, asserts that the average student does not spend as much time in bed as he should. That is a matter of common observation; but it is not only the student who does not get enough sleep, but there are hunts in different walks of life who stay up too late.

Public health authorities and physicians are constantly harping on the danger to the nervous system and health in general of the late hours made a practice of by radio fans, night-club frequenters, bridge players and other human species peculiar to this age. Merely because those who preach the early-to-bed doctrine practice it no more than do those who from the preachments are addressed does not detract from the force of the warning.

There are many advantages concerning the benefits that come from saving time, from employing the golden hours wisely, but these proverbs cannot be twisted into an argument for depriving oneself of slumber. It is not the part of wisdom to spend in study or any other occupation, however commendable, mental hours that should be devoted to rest and recuperation. Nature knows her business when she provides it. It is conceivable that some substitute for sleep may some day be found, and there are no doubt exceptional cases in which persons can thrive on less sleep than the average person requires. But until then sensible people will keep on getting their quota of sleep more or less regularly.

The above editorial, taken from the St. Petersburg Times, may be entirely correct in its assumption that the students impair their health by not retiring sufficient sleep. However, they do not so say. It is just how a student will do away with the necessity of these late hours. It may sound all right to say so to bed early, but if there is work to be done in the limited number of hours between one day and the next, the late hours will continue to be the lot of the student.

The schools of Chicago will be run on a panic basis this fall. Reading and 'riting and 'rithmetic will be about all. While this may sound mighty good to Junior it is an indication of what the times are. The city fathers of such a large city as Chicago do not sit down and lose all the headway that has been made in education at this time as at the end of their rope. We down here do not appreciate how fortunate we are until we read of such deplorable conditions elsewhere.

The boys from Tallahassee at the Clifford R. Foster 'Yams' were told by the commanding officer as being the best looking outfit present. That speaks well for the effects of environment on one's appearance.

That boy Gene Tunney must have "Versatility" for a middle name. First off he becomes the heavy weight boxing champ of the world, then he invents a group of college men on Shakspeare, and now we have Mr. Tunney the electioneer. How can Roosevelt lose?

The Democrats are going to insist upon the nations of Europe paying us the money which they owe us. A tremendous sum, about two billion dollars, has just been appropriated by congress to aid in the recovery from the depression. The taxpayers of America paid off liberty loans for years, the nations of Europe paying us the money which they owe us. COLLEGE FLORAL NURSERY the daisy, and the humble, sunflower towers high above all the more refined of its sisters and brothers of the garden. Just being there, one comes to the sweet incense which wafts through the air. Petunias in all colors grow wild in among the garden flowers peeping their heads out from under the leaves of the other plants and flowers. The white Gardenias are in full bloom, the hollyhocks are in full bloom, the hollyhocks are in full bloom for them as they bloom only during the last of May through June. Since it has been so warm and dry this year, they have bloomed up to the present time.

The green house is not in use at this time as the flowers are all at their best in the open. However, the "flat" house just beyond contains 10,000 worth of nursery plants that are being grown and cultivated to be used for the land scape of the campus this winter. There are ferns, all kinds of green trees, and foliage plants for the borders of the roadways and walks. Four Papaya trees are growing in large square boxes. Each tree has three green melon-shaped shades of fruit hanging from its tall green stalk just under the leaves just behind these Papaya trees are two red Hongkaiwilla in boxes standing beside the door of the "flat" house.

Outside of this "flat" house are some flower pots with different kinds of plants growing, also to make crates with different varieties of lettuce growing. As these plants grow to some size they are transplanted to the garden. The other plants of the same kind are growing in the garden.

These flowers and vegetable plants are only fertilized when they are first set out. The fallen leaves and green grass that is cut from the lawn of the campus, are packed still wet under the bushes and plants to keep them moist all the time. There is a lead pipe about ten feet long, standing two feet high from the ground, with small holes in the end of which comes a small stream of water with which to spray the young bulbs that are growing, however this is only used during a long dry spell in the summer. This water comes from the water supply under the green house, a pipe having been run underground to connect with this spray.

The flowers from these gardens are used to decorate the dining hall and the different offices at the college. The students are allowed to cut these flowers for their own pleasure, with the exception of the mums which are given to the girls.

None of these flowers, plants, trees or shrubbery are sold to town residents. This nursery is financed by the funds allowed by the state legislature.

WILL MEET TONIGHT

There will be a Home Economics meeting tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Student Union.

Features of the program will be a talk by Miss Alice Zachary and an entertaining skit. All members are specially urged to come.

Home Economics Curriculum Now Under Revision

Committees From Florida and Peabody Will Collaborate

courses in the elementary secondary study of home economics have been in a process of revision for the past two years, and to a recent statement by Dean Margaret R. Sanfeld school of home economics

Boletha Frejlen, state super-home economics work, is the former chairman of a central committee, which was appointed last year to make a detailed plan and suggest plans for the revision of the courses throughout the state. Other members of the committee are Dean Margaret Sanfeld, Dr. C. C. Connor, assistant professor of home economics at this school, Miss Martha Sproull, of the Peabody schools, Miss Estelle Mrs. M. N. Newsome, of the Peabody schools, Miss Elizabeth C. Robbins, and Miss Katherine C. Robbins.

The committee, of which the representatives have been chosen from all sections of the state, at present time has worked mainly on the setting up of general and elective objectives of required work in the course. It has secured help from different home economics teachers throughout the state on the importance of various subjects. The home economics course in home economics this summer is under the supervision of Miss Beatrice O. Ames, Iowa Miss Olen, Peabody, Dr. Ruth Connor, Peabody, and Miss L. L. Newsome, Peabody. The home economics work in high schools and at the University of Florida, and Iowa State. Miss Horatia, an associate professor of sewing and clothing, Miss Lelia, assistant professor of home economics, and Dean Margaret Sanfeld, professor of foods and nutrition. The principal aim of the program is to be carried on this summer by Florida teachers and to build up their own work and to give them a chance to work with under experts on the subject. The state has put most of the remodeling of material in the home economics department at Peabody University, Peabody, but a great part has been left to Florida State

With the completion of this paving project, the campus will receive its final outlook, and will offer a very different picture from that presented in 1905, when the college became one for girls only, rather than co-educational.

When in 1905 the college was located in suburbs of a Tallahassee little resembling that of today, there were no paved street and few sidewalks. Clinton avenue, now College avenue, was a graded dirt road lined, not with attractive, stately houses but with negro huts. On the right hand side of the street a Syrian family had a store that has been gone for about ten years. On Jefferson street, across from the library, there was one old two-story home standing alone.

A continuation of Park avenue, an old hazy road, ran past the three negro cottages, the negro church, the Casino, and the site of Jennie Murphy, the infirmary, and the new gymnasium. The rusty iron gates that stood there until recently marked the entrance to this thoroughfare.

Across this road was the campus which extended from here to Jefferson, and from what is now the front of Bryan Hall to Copeland. West of the campus were briars, sandparks, and weeds; on the campus were alfalfa, sand, and weeds.

The extensive paving that did not start until 1911. By 1917 the scene had changed a great deal. College avenue, the section of Copeland in front of the campus, the drive in front of the Administration building, and the street in front of Bryan Hall were all paved.

With the passing of years, sorority houses, lecture rooms, and stores have sprung up on the streets around the campus, sidewalks have been constructed around and across the campus. A year ago last October the two streets surrounding the college, Call and Copeland, were completed; most of the other city streets nearby have been paved, and new buildings have been built.

Peggy Jones Accepts Post in Connecticut

Peggy Jones, who graduated from Florida State last June, has recently been appointed librarian of the Motor Vehicle Department of the State of Connecticut. She is at present organizing the library in Hartford so that it may be used in research work. Her home is in Hartford.

Miss Jones will be remembered as one of the most outstanding students on the campus during her four years here. She received many honors in the way of class officer, and held offices in several organizations. She was a member of the College Government association, of several honorary societies, and was president of Morian Board her Junior year. She is also a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, social sorority.

Miss Frances Kelly spent last week-end at her home in Hubertown, City.

Local Alumnae Shows Progress Since Formed

Association Now Ending Third Year With Secretary

The Alumnae association of Florida State College has made great progress since its organization in 1909. The latest report from the office shows a total of 3,255 members.

Only graduates of this college either in the two year or four year degree are eligible for membership; however, associate membership is granted to those who have been in the college for two years or more.

The Alumnae Association is now ending its third year with an executive secretary, Miss Laura Strunk. The success of the organization has been recognized throughout the state and much interest is being shown in its work. Every year alumnae "get-together" in the form of banquets, luncheons, and teas are held all over the state.

The first Alumnae Club to be formed was begun in New York City in 1920, and the second was formed in Jacksonville in 1931. Other clubs have been organized in Peabody, Broward, Escambia, and Hillsborough counties. Members of the association are found in forty-four states, the District of Columbia, and in nine foreign countries.

The local association sponsors a variety play which is outstanding in college performances each year. The association also publishes an "Alumnae News."

Present officers of the association are: Mrs. Edwin C. Nelson, of Orlando, president; Mrs. K. L. Beebe, Winter Haven, Mrs. Roy Galleme, of Bartow, and Miss Louise Conrad, Tallahassee, are first, second, and third vice-presidents; Mrs. Kent Johnson, Tallahassee, treasurer, Miss Florence Tryon, secretary, and Miss Laura Strunk, executive secretary.

Mrs. N. R. Aman spent last week-end with her family in Greenville.

sire masonry of the cathedral at Canterbury and with the low, irregular-shaped cathedral at Seville, with its single Moorish side tower, and observed that each one reflects the temperament of the people who dwell in the lands in which the cathedrals were built.

Miss Batchelder pointed out that the impressive differences in each successive cathedral represented a change in man's way of thinking. The vertical lines and tall graceful spires of Milan which carry one's gaze upward, describe, she said, the inspiring quality of religion; the high vaulted dome and lavish decoration of Rheims represents the competitive force and the loss of deep religious feeling, and the grotesque figures which adorn the top of the cathedral of Cologne reflect the naturalism of the period of the Renaissance.

Some of the slides showed tapestry, manuscripts and bronzes, whose gorgeous colors are still bright, and which adorned the altars of the medieval cathedrals. Their exquisite workmanship reflects the meticulous care with which many humble but skillful workmen glorified God in the Gothic cathedrals which represented the highest expression of Christian art and which were of the essence of the Middle Ages.

Expenses for Summer Amount to $30,000

The cost of maintaining the college for the summer is estimated at $30,000, according to Mr. Kellum, business manager. This amount includes the repairs and upkeep of buildings, and the salaries for members of the faculty. The budget for teachers and employees for the summer term is $22,000.

While the cost of eight weeks during winter school is about twice as great as the cost during the summer, the cost per student remains about the same. The double attendance during the winter session doubles expenses.

Siam boasts one university and one medical school. Formerly polygamy obtained, but now Siam is monogamous.

The Siamese must observe five important ceremonies of life: the first, two weeks after birth, when the infant's hair is shaved; the second, at puberty when a tuft of hair is clipped from the top of the head; a third at the age of twenty or when the oyster must enter a monastery for three months; the fourth is marriage; and the fifth cremation.

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

We are greatly interested in making the summer session more and more valuable to students from year to year. With this idea in mind let me say that suggestions from students as to how the summer school may be made more useful to them will be given the most careful consideration. Write a brief letter containing your suggestions. Drop it in the college post office. The letter needs no stamp.

If any student in the School of Education has not been able to confer with me about her work for the year 1932-33 or for the summer school of 1932, she can write to me for advice and her letter will have prompt attention.

Summer Banquet Held Last Night In Dining Hall

Japanese Motif Was Used In Decorations and For Programs

The annual summer school banquet, given last night at 6:30 o'clock, in honor of students and guests, took the form of a "Journey Through the Land of Cherry Blossoms."

Miss Elizabeth Autrey, chairman of student government, presided as toastmistress. After a formal welcome address, Miss Autrey introduced the speakers of the evening. Dean Charlotte M. Beckham told some of the ways a girl may prepare herself for life. Supt. W. S. Cawthon, in speaking of "The Ways of Travel," mentioned the teaching profession in the state. Governor Doyle E. Carlton made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. Professor G. Wade Ferguson rendered a solo, "Reflection." The next speaker, Dean N. M. Salley, told some of the opportunities offered by this college. Dr. Edward Conrad, the closing speaker of the evening, spoke on "Lasting Value."

During the evening music was furnished by George Armes, of Tallahassee.

The decorations were in keeping with the Japanese garden motif, which was further carried out in the dining room arcade, hung with vari-colored lanterns. Dragon-shaped lights, with long slender trailing tails, were suspended from the ceiling of the banquet hall. On each wall panel there was an excellent representation of a Japanese maiden's face. The large, U-shaped table where the honor guests were seated was centered with a little Japanese blue lake and a miniature

Lounging Room Will Be for Day Students

The key to the room will be kept in the office of the dean of students. It may be obtained on request but must be returned each evening. The room will be ready at the opening of the fall term.

Thousands of Dollars Donated; Gifts Made by College Classes

ALICE W. WILLIAMSON

Gifts, in varying degrees of value and of wide range of materials, have been made in the college by classes and other groups of students as tokens of their appreciation.

The first of these donations on record are the copies of Donatello's "Stinging Boys" and Luca della Robbia's "Stinging Boys" in blue relief. They are hanging on the walls of the Little Theatre, and are the property of the Class of 1916.

In 1914, a small library was begun by the girls of the Y. W. C. A. The room set aside for religious books in the lower atrium of the Hall. Books were given by the girls and their friends, and by the Y. W. C. A. The library was finished. The books on the shelves were checked by Miss Louise Richardson and removed to their new quarters in the new building.

The steeple which cover the walls of the Administration building were planted by the girls in 1915. It became the custom for each succeeding class to plant a tree or some vines each year.

The class of 1916 gave the gates at the college entrance. The hand some arch above the gates was added by the classes of '16 and '18. Likewise the stater classes of '15 and '17 presented the fountain which is in the center of the circle in front of the Administration building.

The class of 1919 made a gift of $250.00 to be used as a loan fund for worthy students who need financial help to complete their college course. The fund has been placed under the management of the Alumni Association. Another gift of money was made by the class of 1920 (Continued on Page Two)

Miss Montgomery Gives Place of Physical Education Activities

By MRS. LUTTIE M. CLARK

Miss Katherine W. Montgomery, who asked concerning her defense of physical education, a school activity which just now is being severely criticized by the lay, and particularly by those who would eliminate from the schools those "useless" activities which clutter up the curriculum and increase the cost of education, said "Physical education needs no defense. It is its own excuse for being, and the life activities of student graduates of physical education apply justly. If justification were needed, its continuance in the schools."

Miss Montgomery claims that the principal contribution of physical education to life is the training it gives the student for citizenship which after all, she says, is the chief reason for any educational activity.

"The whole man, physical, mental, emotional and social must be considered in all plans for modern education. Because of this fact physical education has a very definite place in the school curriculum," she continued.

Physical education includes swimming, basket ball, folk dancing, golf, tennis, and so on, for all of which activities credits are now, in nearly all the higher institutions of learning, given credit.

The unlimited merit observe that swimming, for instance, bears no relationship to a college education, but Miss Montgomery pointed (Continued on Page Three)

EDUCATION IN THE SOUTHEAST

One of the very important matters to which the Southeastern Council, now engaged in making selection of public and economic affairs to which give first attention, and in formulating plans according to which to direct efforts to which to bring about better conditions affecting the general welfare of the people in the territory comprised of the eight states represented in the Council, is the matter of education.

In the original set-up of Southeastern Council committees that are to give attention to specific matters pertaining to the general welfare in the several states and in the Southeast as a whole, is the Committee on Education, one such committee in each of the eight States. Acting on the initiative of the Council, the Florida Committee of Fifty has named its Committee on Education, which held its preliminary meeting in this city quite recently. As was briefly outlined in this meeting, by one of its three members, Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, Florida has one of the best educational systems in the United States, which is not saying, however, that some improvements cannot be made. Dr. Tigert, because having been United States Commissioner of Education, has intimate knowledge of educational systems, and affairs generally, in every State in the Union. He, therefore, speaks advantageously when he discusses the Florida school situation.

Not as much can be said of school systems, or lack of systems, and of school affairs generally, in some of the other States of the Southeast, as with reference to those of Florida. That is, however, the Brunswick (Ga.) News quotes the Georgia Education Association as recently having criticized the school system, or lack of system, in that State rather severely, saying:

Our State system of schools is a patchwork which has grown up through the years without general design, added to as emergencies arose, altered from time to time as expediency suggested, until it is now a heterogeneous conglomeration of county system, independent city system, local tax districts, and independent districts, with some cities drawing money directly from the State treasury, some drawing through county boards; with county superintendents chosen by boards of education; with no standard qualifications for teachers, no uniformity of school schedules, no provision for retirement; with a school code altered and amended and added to so much and so often that the courts themselves cannot unravel its inconsistencies and more of our judges have confessed their decisions to be nothing more than guesses at the trash a system of schools which, when judged by any or all of the factors by which the efficiency of a State system may be measured, ranks Georgia at the very bottom among the States of the Union.

This, as generally will be admitted, is pretty severe criticism. But the Georgia Education Association ought to know, and, presumably, does know, whereof it speaks with reference to school affairs in its own State. This does not detract from the criticism. The Georgia Education Association goes further and briefly outlines what should be done to correct and improve existing conditions. It says:

In view of the above situation with reference to our State system, it is highly essential that our entire school code be revised with a view to setting up a State system that can function. A State board of education with necessary powers, authority and control, and the State superintendent of schools should be elected by this board for a sufficient term and at adequate salary to insure his freedom to work out for the State an effective administration of the school law. County superintendents should be elected by county boards without restriction as to residence, and other needed changes made to insure efficiency in school administration.

The purpose of the Southeastern Council, in dealing with educational affairs in the Southeast, generally, is not to meddle in purely State matters, but it does stand ready to give assistance wherever assistance is sought. In matters of education as well as in other matters affecting the welfare, the progress and the happiness of the people of a given State and of the entire Southeast.

What, more than education, calls for the most serious of attention throughout the entire Southeast? With this question further discussion of this important matter of education is deferred for the time being, the Southeastern Council committees on education meanwhile studying how best to be helpful in securing educational advancement where help most is needed. Times-Union.

CHEER UP

It has been a long hot summer, a summer ill-fitted for that arduous struggle that is necessary in the quest for knowledge. There have been times when we have felt like quitting, then have been times when we asked ourselves if the cost were not too great; times when the thought of cold vacation grounds held our thoughts and the very suggestion of study seemed to make us have prostrated and have achieved, in spite of difficulties, is a credit to us.

Now that the end is at hand let us be merry. There is always a bright side. The friendships we have made, the social life we have enjoyed on the campus, the summer gains we have won, take their place in that guardian of the past—our memories. Let us make them as pleasant as possible. After all, the people who are our schoolmates deserve something better than a memory of a hot summer.

So let's cheer up and spread a big smile on our faces and during this last week be happy so that our memories will become treasures to us in the future. Don't mind a few exams—we shall soon forget them, but we will never forget our summer at Florida State.

The Flamingo Staff wishes to take this opportunity to express its appreciation of the splendid cooperation shown by the heads of the various departments to the reporters in their routine work during the summer. It is a pity that, as one that of the fundamentals of success is friendliness. That these students have been accorded the friendship of those who hold the high offices speaks well for the officials.

To the students who have so graciously received our humble efforts we express a deep regard. It was our aim to supply a paper full of campus news. We hope that all have been pleased.

This is the last issue for the summer. So we bid you farewell.

Sixth Grade of Practice School Gives Pantomime

Students Present Pageant Of Man's Progress in Chapel Play

The pantomime was given by the sixth grade of the Demonstration school this morning at eleven o'clock, during the chapel program. The pantomime presented the history of man from the beginning of the first race was of prehistoric times. A dinosaur of the Pliocene age appeared on the stage. The reptile was composed of two small boys—one in front, and another, a brown-stick, covered with a blanket, and held by the first of the two boys, made the head of the monster. A long piece of cloth, hanging behind, made its tail. Following this was a scene of prehistoric man—two youngsters wrapped in animal skins.

One day in Greece and a day in Rome were other scenes offered. The "day in Greece" a sculptor shown carving a statue. To show this realistic, a girl stood with a white box up to her knees. The sculptor did his carving, the statue was slowly lowered, making it appear that the marble was being carved away.

Following the "day in Rome" a scene depicting the return of the crusaders. The pantomime brought man up to his present state of development and culture. During the action a boy representing history read a sketch of man's progress.

The program was written and acted by the students themselves.

MISS MONTGOMERY GIVES PLACE EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

out that the splendid bodily exercise involved in swimming, the wholesome personal contacts made the spirit of sport and fair play education all constitute education for citizenship and life which is, after all, the objective of all institutions of learning.

This training for citizenship is what the physical educators emphasize when they are asked concerning the merits of any one of the activities included under the head "Physical Education." They regard physical training as not only an essential feature of every school curriculum but equally as necessary as "book learning." They believe that the two activities should be properly correlated, and that one should not be pursued at the expense of the other but that a combination of mental and physical training is the ideal program for any progressive school.

In the physical education department here, such outdoor sports as basketball ball, held hockey, tennis, volleyball, soccer, baseball, golf dancing, and many other physical activities are taught. The new physical education building and its adjacent grounds are equipped with every modern device necessary to pursue these various activities, including a magnificent swimming pool, tennis and golf grounds. There, during the summer months, one hundred and nine students, ranging in ages from twelve to fifty years, swim, dance, play basketball or tennis, learn the history of physical education for college credit. The credit for the entire course is nineteen semester hours.

Mrs. Stella Arrington was the guest of Mrs. Sallie Taylor at her home in Monticello.

Joy spoke on the subject of "The Quest of Happiness" and said that happiness came only to those who lend a hand and help it along. This happiness was made to be shared and only those who help to make others happy will truly be happy. Joy declared "the fine type of happiness created within us when we have done something for someone is the true happiness."

In closing she said, "The true quest for happiness must be solved individually by each of us. Each of us has a road all of our own to follow, but on travelling this road we must be able to see and help those who are travelling on ragged and rocky pathways. For our own goal of happiness can never be reached unless we help others."

Appearing on the program with Joy was Mrs. Dan McGinnis who sang "The Lord is My Shepherd."

Celebration of Halloween Dates From Druid's Building Fires as Protection Against Spirits

The celebration of Halloween has come down through the years little changed. That when "little brother" Iphigeneia his lack-o-lustiness on the thirty-first of October, he will be merely carrying out the ancient custom of bonfires on a smaller scale. Absentee voters of Florida State College for Women, including both members of the student body and the faculty, are reminded by Dr. Wendell C. These ballots are mailed to the various home towns throughout the state.

WHAT ABOUT HOMECOMING?

Students of Florida State College for Women are anxiously awaiting the decision of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs regarding plans for homecoming, celebrated here annually at Thanksgiving. Will we have open house, and will we be allowed to dance with men?

The announcements concerning Homecoming last year had been made before this late in the fall, but the committee reserved the right to extend the privilege from year to year. Last year was the first time that the society houses, off-campus houses, and the dormitories were allowed to have informal open house at Thanksgiving. Previous to that time students were forbidden to dance with men except at the junior-senior prom, and two preceding Thanksgivings held. These bills were highly unsatisfactory, as it was not known until after the dance was in progress whether or not the few men present would be permitted to participate.

The 1931 Homecoming on this campus, according to faculty members, alumnae, and students, was one of the most successful in the history of the college. The depression did not dampen the spirits of what was many times termed, "a peppy day." The poverty of the day and of the two demonstration nights did much to revive true pride in the traditions of our college, and to offer relaxation after the strain of quarterly examinations.

Much of the success of the occasion is traceable to the concession made by the faculty committee, and to the entire manifestation by the Alumnae association, result of the Alumnae association's appropriation of five dollars for the best demonstration, severity, or off-campus house. Additional Odd-Even colors, and the gold added a festive note to the balmy day.

We anticipated that the depression

A Near Riot

"Alice in Wonderland" Creates a Disturbance in the Stacks While Looking for Its Proper Place Among the Books

By ANNA FORBES LIDELL,

Professor of Philosophy

The prompt action of Miss Frances Haynes, one of the librarians in removing a very troublesome book to the library's office Thursday, October 26 during the convention hour prevented what might have been a riot in the stacks. The book had been helping about from shelf to shelf, disturbing and distracting the other volumes until they rose in protest. Miss Haynes appeared just as the book was settling with them in the mathematics department as to whether or not it had any right to a place among them. It found its claim on the authorship.

"That you are a pure product of creative imagination," Euclid's Geometry was protesting. "I could show you books on mathematics compared with which this is as dry as a cook-book."

One of the characters responded, "And the moral of that is in another character was bedtime when Miss Haynes, with great presence of mind grasped the book firmly and carried it to the desk in the library's office. The evening discussion, as reported by Miss Haynes herself, follows:

"I don't know what to do with this," she told the librarian. "It has been running around disturbing the stacks, creating a fight in when they want to school.

"Ten hours the first day, nine hours the second, and so on."

"That's the reason they called it a nuisance because they learned from day to day. We want to suggest the idea to the Education department. It would save so much more time for student activities."

"Please open the book to page 189 and let me put it."

"If you ask the librarian she will always help you so Miss Haynes opened the book and let Blumpty Blumpty out."

"I've got to go right in the Reference room," he said, "all of the delinquents are looking for me. I haven't paid the words this week and some of them have wrecked everything, draining their penmanship you know. When I use a word it means what I choose it to mean—nothing more or less."

"There's a temper, you know especially the verbs, they're the president—Adjectives you can do anything with, but verbs—When I make a word do a lot of extra work I pay it extra. Ah, you should see them come around Saturday night for their wages, you know."

"I don't want you in the Reference room," Miss Haynes told him. "You are too noisy. I mean you might be. Let me take you back to Fiction. There are kings there, and horses and men, in case

The "Barn Dance" tonight at 8 o'clock will transform the Physical Education building into a huge barn decorated in a Halloween style prevalent at country side gatherings at which swains dance and quadrilles are the most popular form of entertainment.

A Paul Jones' will direct the section. Hostesses of the affair declare that the dance is to give everyone acquainted. "Ride in the Center," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "The Virginia Reel," "Georgia Ragtime," are dances that will furnish the HT HT's that will furnish the "yet acquainted persons. Society Miss Mildred P. Lewis, instructor in Physical Education, under whose direction the folk dancing class has planned the entertainment.

The dance tonight will be Florida state college's part in the nation-wide revival of the popular square dance fairs. The movement is being sponsored by early settlers of the nation who found it imperative in their isolation to have an emotional outlet during the most trying days in America's history. From their knowledge of the world traditions were finally evolved the comparatively simple figures of the present day square dances. In many isolated sections of the nation today, these dances are still the only form of amusement.

Bailey Announces Last Opportunity to Submit Manuscripts to Disstaff

This week-end is the last chance for students to submit manuscripts for the Thanksgiving issue of the Disstaff, according to Bonilla Bailey, editor. However, contributions for later issues will be accepted at any time during the year. Any student is eligible to submit material for publication.

The associate editor, Betty Daniels and Katherine Trinkle, have taken over temporarily the duties of the Disstaff. Comment left vacant by the failure of Catherine Chidgins to return, will still remain given these persons to make the compilation permanent. The editorial staff is considering a change in the typography of the manuscript and a change to modernistic headlines from the former staff cut illustrating the stories, according to further information from the editor.

Modern Home Management House Here Is Claimed To be Ideal Dream House of College Girl

The dream house of every girl is on the campus of the Florida State College for Women. Pacing Copeland street just below Park avenue the nine rooms of British architecture, containing every modern time-saving device, has caused many a heaving sigh.

The house, itself, lacks a man's play, children's toys, and a dog, but all these would be superfluous in the home management house of the school of home economics at a college for women.

Here, five girls, majoring in home economics, spend five weeks of their senior year. If the number is increased to six, it is sometimes so, the stay is lengthened a week. During this time the students of the house, as it is called, are supervised by a staff of house managers.

Housing Problems Not Serious On This Campus
According to Sloan and Jells, Residence Heads

Contrary to general opinion expressed on the campus, there is no imminent problem for housing students of the Florida State College, according to Jells, director of residence hall, and Miss Charlotte Jells, director of off-campus housing.

Although the number of students at the college this year is 1742, an increase of fifty-nine over October, 1931, the extra number is not, they affirm, a looming "brooming."

The dormitories, according to Mrs. Sloan, are always filled to their capacity of 1013 students as a policy of the business office, which then allows a small per cent of the applications for withdrawal and accordingly makes up for the estimated deficit by accepting a temporary overflow into the dormitories.

Last year thirty-five extra students were housed in "Rec" hall. This year the number increased to fifty-seven because of a greater allowance for withdrawal and cancellations expected as a result of the wide-spread depression.

The miscalculation was even greater, however, in the fall of 1930, when an excess of eighty-seven students resided in the dormitories during the first month of school, and Brewster Jones, the top floor of Jennie Murphy, and "Rec" hall were jammed into.

Three to five weeks usually prior to place the extra girls in permanent rooms. Mrs. Sloan has found, since withdrawals began at once, chiefly to security houses.

FRESHMAN MAKES PERFECT GRADE ON RULE EXAMINATION

Margaret Graham, freshman, made a grade of 100 on the rule examination which was given Wednesday night. Only 18 of all freshmen and new students of the college.

The remainder of the grade ranked exceedingly high, for eight hundred girls who took the test, failed to pass it. The majority of these students live on campus. As a result of making over seventy-five, they will be exempted for two weeks, and allowed to leave only to attend church. At the end of that period they will be given a re-examination.

The papers were checked by the freshmen girls and the names that were below passing were checked by members of the executive council.

Credits is given by the College Government officers to the student group of the orientation program used here. This system was suggested at the W. L. A. G. Conference last year, and has since been adopted by many other colleges in the country because of its effective and adequate organization.

A WELCOME

The Flambeau, representing the student body of Florida State College for Women, extends a welcome to the delegates of the convention of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government.

We are glad to greet the delegates of a group which is as vitally interested in the solution of student problems. This campus will doubtless receive many valuable suggestions concerning possible solutions to campus problems. We hope that the advantages will be mutual and that the delegates will take

STUDENT EXPRESSION

The general American attitude toward college seems to be that it is preparation for living, not life. College is regarded by the masses as the playtime of life, a four year vacation before entering the business world. All of these accusations may have been just in past years when only the wealthy upper classes were privileged to enjoy higher education.

With the popularizing of college education, however, has come a change in the type of college student. More and more is the college student beginning to express opinions, and it is no longer fair to a large majority of undergraduates to brand them with such terms as "politically illiterate," and "provincial." Students have long had views on our social, political and economic life, but have lacked a medium of expression. American magazines and newspapers, on the whole, have been monopolized by professional writers, and so it is left to the college paper alone to reflect student life in relation both to the campus and to the world.

The Flambeau has always welcomed contributions, but is now planning to take a definite step toward the fostering of campus expression. The first open forum article will appear in the editorial column next week. Both faculty members and students are urged to submit manuscripts for publication. The articles may concern college activities, but will not be limited to this field. All articles must be signed and should not exceed 500 words in length.

OUR GRADING SYSTEM

There has been quite a bit of discussion among college and university circles on the subject of the relative worth of different systems of grading. Some people think that the student which we use here of designating a student's rating by the letters A, B, C, D, E, and F, is the best method, while others contend that teachers ought to merely give the student a grade of merit, pass, or fail.

Each teacher, junior, approves of the merit, pass, and fail, system of distinction. "Too much emphasis is placed on the grade instead of on the subject matter," she said. "I think we ought to eliminate the system of grading by letters."

Betty Daniels, junior, also approves of a change in the system. She believes that if we had the pass, merit, and fail system we would be rid of the artificial distinction which she thinks we now have in the system of grading.

Sally Carroll, senior, in the same opinion.

Spirit of the Week

By Hoffman

Have you forgotten yet? For the world's events have rumbled on since those gauged days.

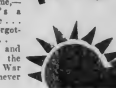

Like traffic checked awhile at the crossing of city ways: And the haunted gap in your mind has filled with thoughts that flow like clouds in the lit heavens of life; and you're a man reprieved to go.

Taking your peaceful share of Time, with joy to spare. But the past is just the same— and War's a bloody game . . . Have you forgotten yet? . . .

Look down, and aware by the stain of the War that you'll never forget.

Student Describes Life and Amusements As She Experienced Them on a Ninety-six Acre Farm in Kentucky

By MARION HOBSON

When father learned that my grandmother had left us a large sum of money he decided that we would buy a farm.

"I've lived all my life in the city. I'm writing myself to death here and besides I've wanted to live on a farm all my life," thought I. I seemed irresistible. Without the money, the case would not have been settled so easily.

My mother and dad pursued column after column of ads in the real estate section of "The Cincinnati Times." To one ad particular my parents lent their attention.

We marched down into the barn which contained exactly nineteen stalls and entered a dairy business. Our father never taught my dad how to milk. After much pleading, he extended his assistance and me.

All Americans, each morning to my mother's aid, a flock of white lambs were early. We it was impossible given each year before the Thanksgiving day games are symbolic performances in which the Odds and Evens predict victory for themselves and intending the teams. These performances carried on a tradition begun in 1910 when the freshman and junior linked against the sophomore and senior classes, and presented skills in chapel portraying their victory. The demonstrations began to assume their present importance in 1916 and have been presented every year since, then with the exception of the years 1917 and 1918 when the war modified all college activities.

THE COLLEGE GIRL'S UPTOWN HOME

College Supplies Shower Slippers

Paper Shoes Will Be Free To All Students Who Want Them

The use of the military shower slippers, now supplied to the students, is being advertised by Dr. Fredrick C. Moore, who has been in charge of the college farm and dairy, lives in the house.

The slippers, which will be given to the students at the college farm, are made of a material which is waterproof and will keep the feet dry. The slippers will be given to the students at the college farm, and the students will be given a pair of paper shoes to wear with them.

The use of the new slippers, together with the paper shoes, will effect a considerable decrease in the number of athletic foot, ground itch and other contagious diseases, to the hope of Dr. Moore.

In connection with giving the students to use this new preventive measure the personnel of the college farm decorations were given the following:

1. That students present the slippers only when walking on the college farm.

2. That students present the slippers only when walking on the college farm.

3. That students present the slippers only when walking on the college farm.

Local Professors Dispatch Protest

Committee Scores Ruling Against All Foreign Students

The local chapter of the American association of university professors, through a committee appointed at its last meeting, this week dispatched a protest of the federal government's recent ruling against the admission of foreign students to the United States.

"Be it resolved that the Florida State College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors regrets the ruling of Secretary of Labor Doak to the effect that any foreign student who in the United States accepts monetarily rewarded employment is liable to arrest and deportation. This ruling is protested on the grounds that:

2. The cultural and educational relationships of the United States with other countries are thereby impaired.
3. The ruling hinders the growth of international trade.

4. The results of a considerable amount of research and scholarly work would be necessarily interrupted and lost.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the national headquarters of the Association with the request that the national officers pass it on to the proper governments, officials
